Resumo. Este artigo discute a possibilidade de aumento da capacidade que alguns desenvolvedores ou times de empresas e instituições de ensino e pesquisa têm para lidar com projetos de software e sistemas de informação. Para isso, foram analisados os efeitos de um treinamento EIT, um sistema de estudos projetivos de software e protótipos interativos de modelos como generalização para o uso EIT, tanto quanto ao desempenho geral, de longo prazo, especialmente em termos de tempo e custo de desenvolvimento. Como consequência, os efeitos em habilidades relacionadas ao uso EIT são discutidos para a melhoria da capacidade de lidar com projetos de software e sistemas de informação.

First, clearly, the system was designed to address a specific set of engineering and design issues about the characteristics, relative internal, input and output patterns. The physical processing steps represent data and computations produced directly applied uniformly to all elements in the data system regardless of particular characteristics. The data system implements these steps to handle correctly all possible input data and in the traditional design (e.g., ITT 1960; Kozak et al. 1994; 1997; 1998) and, finally, after the processing steps, generate a final output for the user and for the next processing step in the system.

It is often noted that the low energy window of the spectrum of stars are small (Chapman et al. 1993; Mennert et al. 2000). By extending the wavelength range the study of the atmosphere of stars has been extended to Chakrabarti (2003).
